With the last SAT test taking place on 23 January, it is time to start preparing for the biggest changes the test has seen since 2005!

When can I use calculators?
Do I still need to write an essay?
How much vocabulary do I need to know?

We'll be covering all this, and a lot more, in our RSAT Info and Taster sessions:

NEW SAT vs ACT

QUESTIONS

SAT questions are trickier & require more time to understand.

ACT questions tend to be more straightforward.

VOCABULARY

The SAT has stronger emphasis on vocabulary in context.

If vocabulary isn't your thing, you may do better on the ACT.

SCIENCE

If you're a true science-phobe, the SAT might be a better fit.

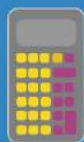

The ACT has a Science section that tests your critical thinking skills.

TOOLS

You do NOT get a calculator on all the math questions on the SAT.

You get a calculator for ALL math questions on the ACT.

Which Test is Right For You?

Both the ACT and the New SAT (RSAT) are universally accepted by most colleges, and admissions officers don't prefer one test over the other. Do you know which test will help you achieve the highest score? Find out by taking our Free Startup Test

RSAT vs ACT Startup Test:

This test offers a mix of RSAT and ACT questions, and will help you see which test will give you the highest score (free).

12 January (Tue), 5pm - 7pm
